In your home and in the garage, give sprinklers plenty of room, to avoid damaging them, and possible costly floods.

If sprinkler heads become dislodged, water will be released, likely causing damage.

RESIDENCES: To preclude water damage to your condo and perhaps your neighbor's too, do not place items in close proximity to the fire sprinklers on your walls and ceilings.

Remember:* Homeowners' responsibilities related to flood damage are found in the CC&Rs.

GARAGE: To preclude water damage to your car, other cars in the garage, as well as storage areas located throughout the parking levels, do not transport items on your vehicle's roof when driving through the parking structure.
